

Matt Padgett, PA-C is a highly dedicated and skilled healthcare professional. Graduating from Touro University indicates that he has received a quality education in the field of medicine.

His commitment to the well-being of the children at Siena Pediatrics is commendable, and his long tenure of over 10 years demonstrates his experience and expertise in the field. Having a loyal following of patients is a testament to his excellent care and rapport with families.

It's wonderful that Matt works full-time, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, ensuring that he is available to provide care to the patients on those days. His specialization in ADHD and other mental health disorders shows his passion for addressing the specific needs of these patients.

Furthermore, his role as a clinical educator for future PA students at Touro University highlights his dedication to sharing his knowledge and expertise with the next generation of healthcare professionals.

Overall, it seems like Matt Padgett, PA-C, is an invaluable member of the team at Siena Pediatrics, making a positive impact on the health and well-being of children while also contributing to the education of future healthcare providers.
